Introduction

The world has become an unpredictable place creating uncertainty and insecurity for anyone doing business overseas or in unfamiliar environments.

But to be a global business you have to be able to deploy people and other assets to foreign countries and to feel confident they can just 'get on with business' without having to worry. You can't be limited or paralyzed by potential risks. Equally, you can't just ignore them. After all, it's your responsibility to ensure their safety and the security of your assets wherever they are.

Anvil exists to help you do that. Our comprehensive risk management services are designed to enable businesses to operate safe in the knowledge that everything possible is being done to ensure their people and other assets are protected. We combine deep security expertise with innovative technology to help you deliver the policies, training, protection and responses needed - no matter what.

We recognize that every business is different, so first we invest time to get to know you and your business. Not just what you do or where you operate, but your culture, your processes and how you do business. We need to understand the general risks and the specific demands placed on your people and the way they work. Only then are we able to identify where we can add most value and how we can integrate with your other resources.

The end result is a true partnership. One where everyone knows what their responsibilities are, how it all fits together and how it ensures that risk analysis, interpretation and response becomes part of how you do business.

Doing just this and doing it well is how we've become the essential security partner for international business - enabling business as usual wherever you operate.

Anvil's vast experience in providing strategic and practical security support to many of the world's most prominent organisations means you can rely on us to protect your people and global operations.”

Policies, Procedures and Planning

It is impossible for organisations to eliminate all potential threats. However, in addition to implementing security measures to protect your most valuable assets, strategies and contingency arrangements should be developed to respond to incidents and to get back to “business as usual” as quickly as possible.

Prompt and comprehensive recovery is vital to overcoming a crisis and minimising further damage. Anvil will help you to study, identify and forecast likely crisis situations and decide on the specific methods your organisation should employ to prevent or cope with incidents.

Risk Assessments

The effectiveness of an organisation's security programme rests not on any individual programme element, but rather on the interaction of each element. At Anvil, we assess each client's security needs individually and comprehensively, partnering with you as a trusted security advisor to deliver thorough risk and vulnerability evaluations and recommendations for your premises, including offices, industrial buildings, meeting/event venues, hotels and private residences.

Our risk assessments provide a comprehensive evaluation of your facilities' physical security infrastructure and security personnel arrangements, including an initial in-depth intelligence gathering phase to assess crime trends and the general threat landscape of the location, as well as social engineering vulnerabilities and capabilities of the local police and fire services.

In addition, we verify the adequacy of introduced safety measures, such as emergency exits and fire control apparatus. Our holistic approach ensures we focus on your employees and company profile, not just local threats.

Secure Journey Management

Whether travelling by commercial or private aircraft, it is often the journey from the airport to the final destination that offers the greatest risk of encountering danger, disappointment or distress.

Even in the most developed countries, it is possible that the waiting driver is poorly trained, unlicensed, uninsured and could certainly lack sufficient experience to interact with senior executives.

Anvil's secure travel network arranges to meet and greet the traveller anywhere in the world, even in the most dangerous of cities, with highly trained, knowledgeable and trusted personnel who will drive the most appropriate vehicles safely to the final destination. We have undertaken innumerable international assignments involving multi-destination visits. We understand the need for flexibility, reliability and consistency in service delivery.
